VERDICT FOR $2000

Mrs. Hamilton Awarded Damages for Her Son's Death.

Former Member of Paducah's Military Company Jumped From the Train and Was Killed.

CASES IN CIRCUIT COURT

This morning the jury in the case of Martha Hamilton, administrator of Robert McManus, against the Illinois Central Railroad company, returned a verdict for $2,000 for the plaintiff, the amount asked for in the petition.

McManus was killed two years ago while crossing Green river on an Illinois Central train. It was alleged that the boy was shoved off in the petition. McManus was well known in Paducah, having been a member of company K during the Spanish-American war, and was familiarly known as "Big Mac." He and Sam Hook were tramping towards Paducah from Louisville and McManus was killed. It was said he fell off, but it was claimed he was pushed off.

This makes the second time the case had been tried, the court of appeals having reversed the decision on the strength of Hook's appearance, Hook not having testified in the case at the first trial.

Hook stated that the brakeman, Henry Hausbro, did not shove McManus off but that he jumped off and did not know the train was passing the trestle. "We were riding on the freight together on the bumpers when the brakeman came along and demanded money," Hook testified. "I gave him 25 cents to let me ride to Louisville, but McManus had no money and the brakeman told him he would have to get off. I started to get off with him when he jumped."

Robert Craig, another companion, stated that he was riding on the rods of the freight train and that the brakeman came along and made McManus jump off. From his statements McManus had been driven to the side of the car and was hanging on the ladder when the brakeman told him to get off. McManus replied that he could not as the train was moving fast. To this the brakeman replied in words to the effect that he had got on while moving and that he must get off and at the same time threatening to step on his fingers if he did not. The night was dark and rainy and McManus did not see that he was on a trestle when he jumped. Hook was not introduced by the railroad people until after Hausbro's trial for manslaughter when he was permitted to testify.

The case of Nicholas Gnanther, of Cincinnati, against M. Rosenblatt, cigar manufacturer, was finished and given to the jury. The suit was to recover $214 alleged to be due on account.

The case of T. H. Stone Lumber Co. against the Tennessee River Transportation company, was on trial at adjournment of court. The plaintiff claims that lumber to the value of $600 was lost and damaged by a breach of contract.

At noon court adjourned to attend the funeral of Mrs. S. B. Caldwell.

The damage suit of Ed McAnany against Griffith and Garrison, for $5000 damages for being assaulted and put out of their saloon, was dismissed. Mrs. Elizabeth Quick was granted a divorce from Marvin Quick.

THE SILLY THING.

ORMAN REALLY SEES IN HIMSELF PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER.

Washington, Nov. 14—Senator Gorman of Maryland has sent word to a few of his friends that he will be in Washington Saturday, and that he would be glad to "commemorate with them." There are many reasons for thinking that Gorman is taking a presidential boom as seriously as some of his friends.

NEW MILL FOR LOUISVILLE.

Louisville, Nov. 14—A new worsted mill to cost about $30,000 will be built by Charles F. Murphy, the Boston capitalist.

AVOID TWO 'PHONES

Committees From Various Associations Meet and Name Committees

The Members Will at Once Confer With Managers of Local Telephone Companies.

NAMES OF COMMITTEEMEN

The move to avoid the dual system of telephones in commercial circles of Paducah has taken definite shape, and tonight or tomorrow a meeting is to be held between a joint committee from the Retail Merchants' Association, the Retail Grocers' Association, the Bar Association, the dentists, and the Medical Society, and representatives of the East Tennessee Telephone company and the new People's Independent Telephone company, with a view to taking some action.

The committee appointed from the Merchants' Association was Messrs. C. W. Thompson, W. E. Cochran and George Rock.

From the Retail Grocers, Messrs. Will Farley, U. S. Walston and P. F. Lally.

From the Medical Society, Dr. J. T. Reddick, P. H. Stewart and H. T. Rivers.

From the Dentists, Dr. O. E. Whitesides.

From the Bar Association, Attorneys J. O. Flournoy and James Campbell, Jr.

These committees held a meeting and appointed a joint committee, consisting of one man from each of the above committees, composed of Messrs. W. E. Cochran, J. O. Flournoy, Dr. H. T. Rivers, Dr. O. E. Whitesides and Mr. U. S. Walston.

This committee was to confer with the local managers of the telephone companies, but today Mr. R. E. Ashbrook, of the Independent telephone company, was called out of the city last night and the meeting will be held tonight, it he returns at 4 p. m., when he is expected.

The object of this move is to avoid having two telephones in every business house or office. The merchants and others, it appears from statements made, are willing to have two telephones if the rates are so fixed that they can have both for the same price they are now getting the present service.

If not, they will make an effort to all agree on one telephone system and it will be up to the telephone companies to make the rate that will be satisfactory, and whichever one is adopted, will probably be used by all the above associations.

Manager Joyner, of the East Tennessee company, who was the only manager to be seen today, said that he could make no statement as to a reduction of rates, as he does not make the rates. All propositions will have to be submitted to the officers of the company at Nashville, and therefore he could not say what will be done. The rates for the other have to be made at Wilkesbarre, Pa., in all probability, hence it will be some time before anything definite is known.

TOBACCO TRUST.

SOME LIGHT THROWN ON ITS RECENT MOVES ABOUT HERE.

Louisville, Nov. 14—The tobacco trust is trying to break up the warehouse business in Louisville and Cincinnati. It desires to have the Richmond system, without inspection. Samples or reclamations prevail here. The trust has begun to deal with the growers as much as possible.

St. Louis, Nov. 14—The jury in the case against Ed Butler, the politician charged with attempted bribery in connection with the bootlegging cases, today returned a verdict of guilty and fixed his punishment at three years imprisonment. He is a millionaire.

A BIG SLUMP

A SMALL PANIC ON 'CHANGE TODAY, FROM REPORTS.

As seen from the stock reports of today, there was a big break in all stocks, with few exceptions. There was no panic, but the break was from three to six dollars in many of the standard stocks.

No cause is known, unless it was the termination of the fight between some of the speculators against the Gates crowd. The four largest slumps in stock were in Illinois Central from $142.40 to $140.50; L. and N., $128 to $123.50; Missouri Pacific, $10.55 to $10, and St. Paul $75.50 to $71.

THE CRY NOW "ON TO CAIRO"—ENTHUSIASTIC CONVENTION.

Capt. Mark Cole has returned from the Parkersburg convention, and Messrs. Ashcraft and Petter will return this evening. Mr. S. A. Fowler went on to New York, and expects to be absent about two weeks.

The convention was the largest and most enthusiastic ever held, and the demand for a nine foot stage from Pittsburgh to Cairo is so strong that congress cannot, it is believed, longer ignore it. The outlook for Ohio river improvements is brighter than ever before.

I used it, and got two more bottles. It cured me and I haven't felt any rheumatism since. I can recommend Snow Liniment to be the best liniment on earth for rheumatism." He now can not do it without permission.

of water on the stone wears it away. The drip, drip, drip of nickles in a savings bank wears away a void in your finances.

Did you ever try it? Just a mite now and then put in a strong box soon grows to good proportions. Who misses a mite? It is easily spared. Suppose you try now to save a little. Probably you belong to the big army of spendthrifts and now would be a good time to start a new wrinkle, as the boys say.

Get one of our Home Savings Banks and put what small change in it you can spare and you will be surprised to see how it grows.

A STEADY INCREASE

Figures Showing the Importation of Manufacturers Material.

Increase in About Nine Months Has Been Fully Sixty Per Cent.

AMOUNT OF OTHER IMPORTS

No feature of the foreign commerce of the United States is more interesting or more suggestive than the figures which show the growth in importations of manufacturers' materials. The September report of the treasury bureau of statistics shows that the importation of manufacturers' materials in the nine months ending with September 1902 were not only larger than in the corresponding period of any preceding year, but formed a larger percentage of the total imports than on any preceding occasion. The total importation of manufacturers' materials in the nine months ending with September 1902 amounted to $325,771,211, and formed 46.39 per cent of the total imports. A comparison of these figures with those for the corresponding period of 1890 shows an increase of 60 per cent in the importations of manufacturers' materials in the nine months of 1890 having been $206,724,960. The share which manufacturers' materials formed of the total imports in 1890 was only 33.03 per cent as against 46.39 per cent in the corresponding months of 1902.

A comparison shows that the importation of manufacturers' materials has increased with far greater rapidity than that of other imports. The total imports of all classes of articles in the nine months ending with September, 1890 were $571,835,287, and in the nine months of 1902, $709,155,675. Of the total imports in the nine months of 1890, manufacturers' materials amounted to $206,724,960, and all other articles, $365,110,327; in the nine months of 1902 manufacturers' materials were $325,771,211, and all other articles, $376,384,464. It will be seen from this that the importation of manufacturers' materials increased nearly 60 per cent during the period 1890-1902, while other importations increased only 8 per cent meantime.

CHANGED HIS TUNE.

THE DRUMMER WAS TOO MAD TO GET HIS CHANGE.

Mr. William J. Flowers, baggage man at the local Illinois Central depot, has learned by long years of experience that the best way to handle difficult patrons of the railroad is in returning good for evil.

"Not long ago," Mr. Flowers relates, "a drummer walked into the baggage room and commanded me to check his baggage to Henderson, and to be damned quick about it too." I asked him for his ticket which he had not yet bought, and after fumbling about this several minutes he began to run down the hotels, transfer companies and finally the railroads. He looked to be a gentleman and in fact would have been taken for one had he kept his mouth closed, but when he first came in I sized him up and apparently did not hear his talk at all. There was $1.25 excess on his baggage and when I asked him for the money he pulled out a $5 bill and throwing it down on the rail walked away, swearing at the 'excessive rates' charged by the railroad company and of the robbers in the employ of the company. I was very busy and had not time to look him up and give him the change at that moment, but I knew I could catch him before he boarded the train, so I waited until the train had come and finally espied him among many passengers waiting at the step of the coach. I walked up to him and asked if he was the man who had checked three pieces of baggage to Henderson and he replied that he was. Here is your change, I said, and he immediately pulled off his hat and was most profuse in his apologies. He was more than complimentary and wanted to take my name as the only honest man in the service, and all that tommyrot, but I just turned away and said nothing to him further."

The Mouie Bauer went to Caseyville this morning for a tow of coal. She had a little trouble with the wud at first but was soon gotten under control.

COMMON SENSE AND CONSUMPTION

The treatment of consumption is every year becoming more successful. The majority of cases can be cured if taken in time. Not more medicine but more common sense is the cause of the improvement.

Fresh air, good climate, food, clothing, exercise, all these are important features of common sense treatment.

As a builder of flesh and restorer of strength Scott's Emulsion is still unequalled. The special action of Scott's Emulsion on the lungs is as much of a mystery as ever—but an undoubted fact.

Common sense and Scott's Emulsion is good treatment.

VERY SUCCESSFUL.

PHYSICAL CULTURE IN THE SCHOOLS PLEASE ALL.

The teachers in the local schools are very much gratified over the success in the physical culture and especially in the High school where the exercises are accompanied by music.

The pupils are called together at 10:30 each morning and assembled in the auditorium for practice. The teachers play the piano and the pupils keep time with the exercises. The drill is very pretty and the teachers would like to have any visitors call to see it who are interested in this work. There have been several visitors out and have complimented the work very highly. This is a feature of the work that has not been in the schools prior to this year, and the pupils like it very much and look forward to the hour when the exercises are gone through with.

A FUNERAL IN GEORGIA.

"They have some odd customs in Georgia," remarked a salesman for a big Washington avenue shoe house, who has just returned from a trip through the south, yesterday. "One that struck me as particularly strange and heartless was advertising a 'cheap and pleasant trip' for a funeral. The event took place at Emmaline, and within a hundred miles of the town pink handbills were circulated announcing it. I brought one home with me as a souvenir." He then produced the dodger and a curious crowd read it over and agreed with the salesman that it seemed a cruel bit of literature, for it read as follows:

Go to the meeting at Emmaline, Ga., Sunday, November 9. The funeral of Sister Sallie Thomas, mother of Mrs. Lucy West, will be preached by two of the ablest Baptist preachers in this section, Reverends P. J. Major and J. W. Weaver of Waynesboro. The Millen and Southwestern railroad will sell tickets at a two-thirds rate for the round trip on Sunday, which makes it a very cheap and pleasant trip for all who attend. Every one invited. A large crowd will be in attendance. All your friends be there. Benj. West, manager, Emmaline, Emanuel county, Ga.—Globe-Democrat.

The Summers arrived from the Ohio last night for fuel and after having taken on coal returned to get her tow which is aground at that place. She will go to Jopps tonight and take the place of the steamer Oondor which will be brought to the city for repairs.

CANCEROUS ULCERS

Are in many respects like other ulcers or sores, and this resemblance often proves fatal. Valuable time is lost in fruitless efforts to heal sore with washes and salves, because the germs of Cancer that are multiplying in the blood and the new Cancer cells which are constantly developing keep up the irritation and discharge, and at last sharp shooting pains denote the approach of the eating and sloughing stage, and a hideous, healing cancerous sore begins its destructive work.

No ulcer or sore can exist without some predisposing internal cause. It has poisoned the blood, and the discharging ulcer, or the festering sore on the lip, cheek or other part of the body will continue to eat and eat deeper into the flesh unless the blood is purified and the cancer germs or morbid matter eliminated from the circulation.

S. S. S. cleanses the blood of all decaying effete matter. It has great detoxal and purifying properties that soon destroy the germs and poisons, restore the blood to its natural condition. And when pure blood is carried to the ulcer or sore the healing process begins, the discharge ceases and the place heals over and new skin forms. S. S. S. is a strictly vegetable blood purifier containing no mercury or minerals of any description.

If you have an ulcer or chronic sore of any kind, write us about it, medical service will cost you nothing. Books on Cancer and other diseases of blood will be sent free.

SAVED THE DAY

MR. BILLY POURED IN THE OLD CASH AND PREVENTED A PANIC.

York, Nov. 14—W. K. Vanderbilt II. Harriman and the other interests, by pouring about $1,000,000 into Wall street when the market was crumbling and frightened, liquidating and flooding the market yesterday, not only saved the day, but in the opinion of many men saved the street from a disastrous panic.

Mr. Vanderbilt himself, through his organs, took $5,000,000 of Southwestern stock at $100 a share, and Mr. Harriman, for his syndicate, took $7,500,000 of Southern stock at $100 a share.

Reported yesterday afternoon Mr. Vanderbilt's interests had bought $1,000,000 of Rock Island preferred stock. The stocks of the Rock Island, in which Mr. Vanderbilt is interested, and of the Erie, of which Mr. Harriman is president, have declined heavily since the raid, and their owners are trying to protect them from the consequences of further liquidation.

Mr. Vanderbilt has been dumping upon the market $1,000,000 of Southern stock ranging from $23.38 to $25.00. The news spread of the stock instantly steadied the heavy pounding and the market recovered.

SENATOR HANNA MAY RETIRE.

IT IS REPORTED THAT SENATOR HANNA HAS ENOUGH OF PUBLIC LIFE.

Washington, Nov. 14—A close friend of Senator Hanna writing on political business to a friend in Washington is authority for the statement that Senator Hanna will retire from public life at the end of his senatorial term. The Washington Post, usually very well informed about Senator Hanna, prints the news as a probable fact. Partial support of the statement is also at hand from other sources.

It is declared that Senator Hanna will not only give up the chairmanship of the national committee, but that he will refuse to return to the senate and will take no active part in the next presidential election. He would naturally retire from the chairmanship of the national committee. The inside story of Senator Hanna's relations to President Roosevelt is that Senator Hanna went to President Roosevelt shortly after McKinley's death and said to him: "You will have my earnest and honest support. Do not get nervous if you hear apparently direct reports to the contrary. You are on trial before the American people. If you make good with the people you will not need my support. If you do not my support would not save you. If I ever have a candidate for the presidency I will come to you and tell you straight before I tell any one else."

It is further understood that Senator Hanna has not yet told the president that he has changed his mind.

PRESIDENT MITCHELL MAY ESTABLISH HEADQUARTERS AT MADISONVILLE.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 14—Representative R. B. Bradley, of Madisonville, who is here says that it is stated there that President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers' union, will shortly reach there and take up his headquarters.

Mr. Bradley says this information was given him yesterday by the district representative, Mr. Barnaby, who is in close communication with Mr. Mitchell. The location of head-

THE REVISION

Aldermen Make Some Changes Relative to the Ordinances.

No New Bridge—Alderman Singleton Was Sworn in Last Night.

There was a called meeting of the board of aldermen last night to act on several matters passed on by the council the night before. There were eight aldermen present, Alderman G. G. Singleton being present and sworn in.

The mayor was instructed to purchase two horses for the city's use.

The matter of adopting the revised ordinances was brought up. It was first the intention of the board to hold called meetings and read each ordinance and regularly adopt it, but the members were informed that they could do it just as well by having a committee go over the ordinances as revised and after reading them, report back and the board adopt them by a general resolution. The council ordered this done and appointed the ordinance committee to cooperate with the aldermanic ordinance committee but the aldermen last night decided that it would be sufficient to appoint only the chairman of the committee to do the reading, specified that they shall sit six hours each time, and receive $3 each for each sitting. This will now have to be passed on by the council.

If it is ratified it will save the taxpayers several $3 a meeting salaries. The council has been drawing pay for called meetings, with the exception of Councilmen Reed and Potter, who do not think it is legal and have refused to take it. Under the present arrangement only the chairman will draw the $3.

The aldermen refused to concur in the council's action authorizing a new bridge over Island creek at Sixth street, but authorized the engineer to proceed with the work of repairing the present bridge.

Vacancies in standing committees were filled as follows by Alderman Leigh: Aldermen Riglesberger, Thurman and Singleton for the finance committee; Greif, Singleton and Smith for the ordinance committee, and Singleton, Jones and Durrett for the street committee. The first named alderman is chairman of his respective committee.

CUBAN TREATY

GEN. TASKER BLISS MEETS SECRETARIES HAY AND ROOT.

Washington, Nov. 14—An important conference, bearing on the subject of the Cuban reciprocity treaty, was held at the war department, the participants being Secretary Hay, Secretary Root and Gen. Tasker Bliss. The latter was called into the conference at Secretary Hay's suggestion because of his expert knowledge of the existing Cuban tariff. Before the conference at the war department Secretary Hay had talked on the subject with Senator Onslow, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, and also with Senator Quesada, the Cuban minister here. Senator Quesada was not able to submit to Secretary Hay the draft of the reciprocity treaty, which had been under consideration so long by the authorities at Havana, as the document has not left that place.

So officially the United States government continues in ignorance of the extent and character of the changes, if any, which President Palma may desire to make in the treaty.

LIBRARY TRUSTEES.

WILL INSTALL STEAM HEATING IN THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Library Trustees Lang, Perryman, Wellie and Savage met last night at Architect Lassiter's office and ordered $3,000 advanced to the contractors who are building the library building at Ninth and Broadway. It was also ordered that Mr. Carnegie be drawn on for an additional $5,000.

In regard to the heating of the library it was decided to put in a steam heating plant unless arrangements can be made with the new steam heating concern to furnish the heat.

ALL A FRAUD

Whiskey Tablets Cannot be Sent Through the Mails.

Competent Judges Decided That It Was Misrepresented.

Chicago, Nov. 14—The Tribune prints the following telegram from its Washington correspondent:

Postmaster General Payne today issued an order denying the use of the mails to the Whiskey Tablet company, 315 Lyceum building, Kansas City, Mo. The company advertised that the tablets when dissolved in water made a substitute for whiskey that was even better than the "straight" article. The department received a number of complaints regarding the company, and an inspector was assigned to the case who bought a box of the tablets and made a tumbler full of the liquor, according to directions. He didn't think much of the result, but inasmuch as he does not confess to being a judge of alcoholic liquors—at least not in his official reports to the department—he formed an impromptu expert commission composed of a Kentucky colonel, a drummer and a bartender, to pass upon the quality of the substitute.

The members of the commission solemnly and successfully tasted the contents of the tumbler, and after they had recovered sufficiently to sample a substitute for the substitute, their conclusion was voiced by the Kentuckian in the statement that "this stuff, sub, is vile, perfectly vile. It bears not the slightest resemblance to the genuine article, sub, and the man who sells it for a substitute should be prosecuted—rigorously prosecuted."

The other members of the commission concurred in the remarks of the chairman and after their conclusion that the liquor was not alcoholic had been substantiated by expert testimony of a slightly different kind, the assistant attorney general decided that the sale of the tablets as a whiskey substitute constituted a fraud.

REDUCING ITS ARMY.

Washington, Nov. 14—A cablegram received at the Colombian legation from Bogota, announces that the Colombian government is rapidly reducing its army, since conditions are such that it is not necessary to maintain the large army that was organized because of the revolution.

SETTLED FOR GOOD.

The recent election settled at least one disputed issue: the insular policy of the administration cannot be successfully attacked for years," declares the Lexington Herald, Democratic.
"For two years both houses of congress and the presidency are under the control of the Republican party and of the president. During those two years the policy of the administration will have become so fixed upon those possessions and upon our own government that no party would dare reverse it. And if the Democratic party should be so foolishly it will not control the senate and could not accomplish any radical change.

"We have always been in favor of the retention of the Philippines and also of the annexation of Cuba. Under the present Philippine commission—under the present laws—the work of establishing public order will go on slowly but surely, and in whatever respect the present laws may be defective, further legislation will remedy those defects. Of course many very difficult and troublesome problems will arise, and years of patience and wisdom will be required for their solution and proper settlement. . . .
It is well to have this result plainly stated and fully understood. For a little while we may hear some belated 'spill-the-hinder' repeat some of the pet sentences of his late stump speeches; and occasionally perhaps in the columns of a newspaper may be printed abuses of the republic in dealing with these devotees of freedom who murder our soldiers and sometimes assassinate an American teacher. But the issue is dead—dead as a door nail—dead as free silver.

"It may be that during these two years our present unsatisfactory relations with Cuba may be made satisfactory; but in the end the only practicable relation is the annexation of that island. The recent and unsettled dispute about the Isle of Pines may bring about such a condition as will justify a reopening of negotiations with the government so foolishly established in Cuba, looking to closer union; it is to be hoped that this will speedily occur."

The prospects for congress ignoring the tariff are bright, and it is very doubtful if there would be any advantage in tampering with it. A majority of the people of the United States are satisfied with the tariff and are reaping the benefits of the wise and effective policy pursued by the Republican party and do not want any change. The majority of people should always be considered. And when there is any necessity for revising the tariff the Republican party, which made it, understands it and operates it, will make the necessary changes without any assistance from a party that is constitutionally opposed to it in any form.

Composer Maccaferri came over here from Italy to get the good American ly probable that any one will offer any objection. An Italian or any one else, while in the United States, is subject to American law. He is certainly no better than our own citizens and they are subject to our laws.

The Democrats are beginning to talk of the city election in Paducah next year, and it is probable that early in the year steps will be taken to hold a primary and make nominations.
Mayor Yeiser's troubles will then begin. He will first have to wallopp some of the big guns in his own party, and then if he does that the Republicans will give him a run for his money in the winter. The coming year is certainly not a pleasant one in prospect for the mayor. His will indeed be the strenuous life.

A county attorney at Jackson, the seat of feudal war in Kentucky at present, writes that "if a few citizens of this county will stop so much clasp, and stop talking feud, and lay down their Krag-Jorgensons and needle guns and go back to business, the trouble will end." Well, well. It looks dead easy. Funny come one didn't think of that before. Now if they'll only "if."

The trouble over two telephone systems in Paducah that The Sun predicted several months ago is beginning to become much plainer to some of the citizens than it was awhile back.
Some of those who were in the concerted effort to have two systems are now in a concerted effort to get along with only one.

The question is not "to be or not to be," but is how much is Mayor Yeiser going to have to borrow next week to meet the current expenses of the city?
It looks awfully easy now, but wait until it has to be paid back by the taxpayers, with expenses running on just the same.

General Miles, who is in the Philippines, has expressed sympathy for the Philippines. General Miles, however, usually feels a compassion for every one not so important as General Miles, which includes the greater part of humanity.

The hog vote in Graves county was 1,435 for a hog law and 1,475 against it. Mayfield and Paducah ought to join hands and consolidate the hog and cow interests.

At last accounts Col. Wetmore was still in St. Louis. Col. Peter Arlund was still in Louisville, and they both were alive.

"Prof. Loeh has discovered a recipe for prolonging life. More bad news for men with mother-in-laws."

THE RAILROADS.

INSPECTION TRAIN IN AGAIN— MORE REDUCTION AT SHOPS.

The Illinois Central inspection train passed through the city again last night, arriving at 8 o'clock and leaving at 9:30 for the south. The train had been on the Louisville division inspecting branches, and will not return this way again. The inspectors are on the southern branches today and will complete their work within a few days.

The out in the forces at the local Illinois Central shops is still being made. Since Monday about eighty men have been laid off indefinitely, but there will be no others let out after this week. The cut this year is light, comparatively, and the machinists will be permitted to work without interruption, as the work in their department is very heavy. The majority of the men who have been laid off came out of the woodworking department; but a few helpers in the blacksmith and machine departments have been let out. The company prefers to let the men off a few each day so that the forces will be better organized, a plan which has proven better than laying the entire lot off at one time.

Patrick Henry, white, age 25, an employee of the Illinois Central near Repton, Ky., was injured yesterday afternoon while loading ties into a car.
He got his hand under a tie and the member was badly mashed and one finger broken. The injury was dressed by the local surgeon.

PLENTY OF SMOKE

BUT NO ONE HAS YET DISCOV-ERED ANY FIRE.

Frankfort, Nov. 14—Rumors of a conflagration from Youtsey are plentiful, but no one seems to know anything

A GENERAL LAUGH VERY MUCH MIXED

Created Over the Arlund-Wetmore Fiasco.

Col. Wetmore Turns the Challenge Over to the Police—Col. Ar-lund Vainly.

SAYS HE HAS "FIT" BEFORE

Louisville, Nov. 14—Mr. Peter Ar-lund is still in Louisville and Col.
Moses Wetmore is safe in Missouri, so the prospects for a meeting on the gory field of honor are remote. Col.
Wetmore doesn't want to fight anyway. He has turned the challenge over to the police and Mr. Arlund is threatened with the law, which makes it an offense to invite a man to combat with deadly weapons.

The funny aspect of the matter has struck St. Louis and is causing a general laugh.

To a reporter Mr. Arlund said:
"I have bought a big block of stock in the Planters' hotel, and I am going to fire Wetmore out when I go back to St. Louis."

"I don't expect a duel out of him.
He's evidently afraid of me. Probably he heard about my two duels."

"Where were they fought?"

"One in Denmark, the other in Australia. There is a souvenir of the first," said Arlund, exhibiting a crippled index finger.

"And the second?"

"Well, my adversary fell."

The following is from St. Louis: Much amusement was occasioned in social and political circles when it became known that Col. M. C. Wetmore had been challenged to fight a duel to settle their differences growing out of Arlund's attack on Wetmore for insulting a woman whom Arlund at first represented to be his wife and afterward declared was a friend of his wife.

The amusement was heightened by the discovery that both the belligerents had left town, going in opposite directions. The question is which man left first.

From Kansas City comes the following: Col. Moses Wetmore, the St.
Louis millionaire who was attacked and beaten Sunday night by Peter Ar-lund, a Louisville broker, arrived in Kansas City yesterday. Col. Wetmore went to the Hotel Baltimore, but he did not place his name on the register, and succeeded in dodging reporters until night, when finally he was cornered and asked concerning the challenge sent him by Arlund. He admitted having received the challenge, but refused to show it.

He said: "It was delivered to me at the Union station by a messenger boy as I was leaving for Kansas City. The story that I fled from St.
Louis to escape Arlund is all poppycock. I shall turn his challenge over to the authorities, and it is quite possible that Mr. Arlund may regret having sent it. The anti-duelling law in Missouri, you know, is rather severe.
I shall not reply to the challenge."

"The woman whose honor this man Arlund so impudently defended at the Planters' hotel is a well known St.
Louis character. She became altogether too gay for a respectable hotel, and I told the clerk to notify her that she must keep her room or leave the hotel. That's what aroused Arlund's dander."

TO TABARD INN MEMBERS.

The local sub-station of the Tabard Inn Library is in full running order, and members are drawing books each day. The cost, after the membership fee, is four cents for each week each book is kept out. When no book is out there is no accumulating charge.

The rate will not be advanced to five dollars until Monday, so those who have waited to see the station opened before joining can enter now at only 50 cents more than the 75 charter members paid—that is to say—the rate is now four dollars.

I shall be glad to have persons interested in this finest of circulating libraries call to see me at the sub-station—McPherson's drugstore—between nine and eleven a. m., and three and five p. m. It is folly to wait until the fee is advanced.

A Number of Sensations in a Noted Murder Case in Illinois.

Paducahan One of Several Hundred Witnesses at Shawneetown.

Mr. Collins Roark of Michael, Prosper, the city, returned last night from Shawneetown, Ill., where he was summoned Tuesday as a witness in the case against Harry Hubbard for the murder of Wm. Espy at Benton, Ill., where Mr. Roark formerly worked about three years ago.

It is said that the present status of the case probably has no parallel in the criminal history of Illinois. The defense did not desire to go to trial.
Hubbard was once before tried and sentenced to fourteen years, but after serving twenty-two months at Chester secured a new trial, and the case came up again at Shawneetown Tuesday.
There were about 300 witnesses present, and after every other effort to secure a continuance had failed, an affidavit was filed affirming that both the judges, E. E. Newlin and P.
A. Pierce, were prejudiced, and asked for a change of venue.

This change of venue was granted, but there was no other judge in the district to try it, as the only other one, Judge Youngblood, had already tried it.

The intention was to try the case anyhow if a judge could be found, but an affidavit was filed alleging that money had been used to secure the signatures to the affidavit relative to the judges being prejudiced, which created a sensation, and it is said will result in the arrest of relatives of the defendant for attempting to bribe.

The effort to secure another judge was without success, and the case was yesterday continued until February, and the 300 witnesses had to go home.

It is said that Hubbard slipped up on Espy and shot him, and there is a great deal of feeling in the case.

Mr. Roark, who has become tired attending the trials, would not go this time until $25 for expenses had been advanced him. Being in another state, they cannot compel his attendance.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER

WILL JONES ARRESTED HERE AND HELD.

Will Jones, who has been working about Terrell's livery stable for the past several days, was arrested by Officer Dugan and Rogers on the charge of being an embezzler, wanted at Terre Haute, Ind.

Several days ago Chief Collins received a letter from Terre Haute authorities saying to look out for Jones and giving a good description of the man. He was arrested later by the officers who had been working on the case. Jones has gold in his teeth and was anxious to know if the man wanted had gold in his teeth also.
The Terre Haute police have been notified of the arrest but up until this afternoon no answer to the telegram had been received.

TAKE EVIDENCE.

SESSION OF THE MINERS' COM-MISSION BEGAN TODAY.

Sheraton, Pa., Nov. 14—All the members of the anthracite strike commission are now here and in readiness to begin the hearing of the differences existing between the miners and their employers. The sessions of the commission began at 10 o'clock in the Lackawanna county court house.

Most of the representatives of the contending parties are also on the ground. Each side will have an array of attorneys, and it is expected that at least two weeks will be taken up in hearing the witnesses on each side.

TO SEE THE PRESIDENT.

The Illinois Central will make a one fare rate to Memphis on the morning of the 19th of November, the regular train leaving Paducah at 3:45 a. m., cause of the visit to Memphis of President Theodore Roosevelt, who will attend the General Luke E. Wright entertainment.

Theatrical Notes.

Preparatory to taking his band across the water in December for his third European tour, John Philip Sousa is engaged upon another of his remarkable trans-continental tours, embracing seven-eighths of the United States in the brief period of twelve weeks. This city will be one of the 125 included in the itinerary, and the concert will be given at The Kentucky on next Tuesday night.

The Sousa band was a surprise to British musicians and public alike in its concert tour last year of the "tight little island," where the military band was supposed to have reached its highest development.
The character of the Sousa concerts, with their constant music, contrast of melodic light and shade, the brilliancy and verve of the Sousa marches, the charm, distinction and individuality of the conductor, the wonderfully pure tone and the balance preserved between the various instrumental groups, the precision of attack, the delicacy of the pianissimos and the sustained force of the climaxes, all these appealed with potent force to the audiences across the water.

Woman Work a Sawmill.

The four daughters of Benjamin Gottschalk of Jersey Shore, Pa., have recently announced that they intend to work the sawmill of their father at Youngdale until it attains an average output of 10,000 feet of lumber each working day. The girls are hard at work and are striving to break the record they established last season.

ADVICE THAT WAS WORTH IT.

"I was once a slave to the coffee habit, and became almost a confirmed invalid by drinking it," says Mr. C. H. Aitken of Whiting, N. J.

"I tried to break away from coffee, but every time I stopped I suffered from severe sick headaches, and for relief went back to coffee again, only in the end to suffer from extreme nervousness and severe bilious attacks."

"I became so irritable that I made life miserable for my family and myself. Finally I went to New York to consult a specialist. After thoroughly questioning and examining me he said I must give up drinking coffee, as it had greatly undermined my health, and he further said that coffee killed more people than rum. I laughed at him, but he said it was the truth and that in his practice he had seen many evil effects from coffee drinking."

"He said it was of no use to prescribe for me unless I gave up coffee, and recommended that I use Postum Food Coffee, which he highly recommended. He charged me $12 for his advice, which I thought rather high priced at the time, but today I think it very cheap. I bought several packages of Postum from the grocer, and it was the best day's work I ever did for myself."

"I had a pot of Postum made for my supper that night; that was in the spring of 1898, and I have drunk it ever since with the best of results to my health. The sick headache and nervousness I suffered from drinking coffee have entirely gone; I am never bilious and have increased in weight; I have a happier disposition and am

Body of Pilot Arthur Cole Will Not be Disinterred at Present.

His Brother, Capt. Mark Cole, Arrived in the City This Morning.

Capt. Mark Cole, who was a delegate to the Parkersburg Waterways convention when he received news of the death of his brother, Pilot Arthur Cole, below Florence, Ala., reached the city this morning, and after a consultation with the Elks it was decided not to disinter the body at present, but to wait until cooler weather, and then bring it here for burial in Oak Grove or at Golconda, Ill.

Capt. Cole is satisfied that his brother had been dead six or seven days before found, and that the dispatch saying that he had been dead seven days meant seven days. The last entry made on his notebook, on which he was taking the gauge, was the 4th, and this indicates that he had been unconscious and helpless, or dead, until found last Tuesday, the 11th. He probably died from apoplexy. His body was found in a skiff stranded on a sand bar. No boats were running in the river along there, and he had gone out to learn the river, and was traveling in a skiff taking notes and measurements on his way down.

FEARS ASSASSINATION.

J. B. MARCUM OF JACKSON, KY., IS WARNED OF PLOT TO KILL HIM.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 14—J. B. Marcum, of Jackson, against whose life numerous plots are said to have been directed, is in Lexington, en route to Frankfort to argue a case before the court of appeals. In fear of assassination he left his home by the rear door just before train time, accompanied by his two sisters and his wife, and proceeded to the depot by a circuitous route.

Marcum is a trustee for the State college, attorney for the Louisville and Evansville railroad, United States commissioner in his district and attorney for several eastern Kentucky corporations. Until today he had not left his home but twice since June. Within the last few days he has been afraid to leave his room, he says, having been warned by a friend that two men had been stationed in a house commanding a view of his porch and were to shoot him when he followed his custom of sitting on the porch.

By HOWARD FIELDING

Copyright, 1901, by Charles W. Hooke.

Brenda would have spoken, but the horse suddenly started under the whip, and the rule of the rough pavement.
The last glimpse of Alden's face gripped his left arm remained with Brenda like a persistent nightmare that survives the dawn. The conventional courageous stand in her mind. It was a little picture of the old days, the time of small pleasures and easy living, so suddenly brought to an end. Every thing in life had suddenly become different. Words must be weighed and one's conduct guided by a plan, not left to mold itself into the forms of mere usage. And thus she came to think of what she should do and say at the hospital. How meet the emergencies that might arise? Had she spoken, or did she lead at that moment in some small, lure room, watched by a stolid nurse who yawned and stretched herself as the day's work drew to a close? A portrait in a velvet frame—Elsie's mother beyond a doubt—reappeared sharply to Brenda's memory, and she shuddered.
It had stood on the dressing table—a woman not yet old; a pretty, smiling face. It was dreadful to think of that face smiling there all that afternoon, the eyes looking, yet seeing nothing, the lips unable to utter a cry.

"I must put it out of my mind," said Brenda to herself.
At the hospital there was little to be learned; nothing to be done. An elderly man who seemed to be in authority said: "The child is still living. We cannot predict the ultimate result of the injury as yet. You cannot see her nor send any message. Leave your address, and we will communicate with you in accordance with the event, whatever it may be. It will be useless to wait. If you are able to see her at all, there will be no great pressure of time."

Brenda rode to her home, and as the cab drifted through the clamoring whirlpools of the Avenue she was thinking that the white haired man had spoken almost tenderly of Elsie as "the child."

There was no mother in the MacLane mansion. She had been dead ten years. There was an aunt, an amiable old lady for whom Brenda entertained no little affection, but in the serious affairs of life she would as readily have taken counsel with her brother, who was not yet 12. Her father, for so strong a man as he was in the world of finance, was a weak man at home. He had no gift of sympathy, a deficiency which may have accounted for both the strength and the weakness. Brenda told him the story of her adventures as it has been here set forth, and he received it with painful surprise and lively alarm.

"Why did you go there?" he exclaimed. "What possible interest could you have in this wretched girl?"
"My dear father," she replied, with an excellent counterfeit of a smile, "let me remind you that my affection for Mr. Alden has been the one sincere emotion of a sully artificial life.
When I saw that terrible story, the "Permit me to consider the legal aspect of the case."

first feeling I had was sympathy for Clarence. I wanted to do nothing for him, and I couldn't think of anything else but to go to her."
"The papers will be full of it," he groaned. "I have always been afraid of Alden. You know I could never reconcile myself to him."

"I remember that you always admired him," said she.
"A good many people admire him," exclaimed the old gentleman impatiently, "and they're all afraid of him.
He is a headlong, reckless, unsafe man, and I never should have permitted you to become engaged to him."

Brenda smiled without effort this time. She knew that her will would dominate her father's in any conflict, and that he would permit her to have her own way to the end of the story.
"I am not engaged to him any more," said she, and her father admitted cordially that that was something to be thankful for.
"He has behaved most dishonorably to you," he added.
"I have no complaint to make of Mr.
Alden's conduct," said Brenda. "I shall not break my heart for him, but I wish he might have loved me, let us go to dinner."

Mr. MacLane was considerably surprised to observe as the meal progressed that his daughter ate with a good appetite. Having a shrewd faculty of observation, he perceived at last that Brenda's body was attending to the whole matter of its own sustenance, and that her mind was elsewhere. As anxiety rises in intensity the thinking part of us interferes more and more with the grosser envelope and the processes of enlightened selfishness therein implanted by nature, but there comes a point of separation where the mind goes its own way and the body likewise, to the great betterment of the latter temporarily.

After dinner Brenda and her father went into the library, a room of which he made great use for smoking, much preferring it to the apartment especially designed for the indulgence of that pernicious habit.

Brenda fell at once into deep thought, and her father, after several futile attempts to talk with her, sat down by a desk and endeavored to occupy himself with certain household accounts. He was a man of large frame and little flesh, rather handsome in a mildly aquiline style and with eyes like Brenda's, but gentler and with more of the blue tint in them. There was something womanish about him, hard to trace, but probably in his manner altogether and not in his looks. A nervous irritability made utter trifles a tragedy for him. Everything worried him more or less. At the desk there, as he puttered with the accounts, his pen fell from the rest where he had placed it, and he picked it up with a groan.

His phrases were few. His home was something to him; his pride, of various kinds, a staff to lean upon. He had considerable affection for his son and rather more for Brenda. He thought God daily that her health was so good; but, even so, he was always afraid that it might fail.

His chief joy in life was a business journey. He could get nothing out of a pleasure trip because of the obvious waste of time. But to be one of three or four moderately congenial men absolutely forced to travel, preferably in some one's private car, perhaps to see a bit of industrial property in the west or even to farther than Washington when there was a bill affecting business interests before congress—that was genuine relaxation. It was necessary to go, and the responsibility for getting there was on the engineer in the end. One might smoke a good cigar meanwhile and speak of small matters. When one has reached a certain stage of nervousness, it is more tranquilizing to ride 15 miles an hour under another man's guidance than to sit still at home as a result of one's own volition.

To Brenda and her father in the library entered Willett, the butler, with a troubled countenance. It appeared that two men desired to see Miss Mac-Lane and that their names were Barnes and Haggerty.

"They mentioned a Captain Neale, miss," said the butler, "presuming to say that you'd understand."

Brenda rose hastily.
"They have come to take me to the hospital," she said. "Tell them I will be ready in a few minutes, and see about the carriage."

"Are these people policemen?" demanded Mr. MacLane.

"Well, sir, I took them to be what they call ward detectives," ventured the butler, "and I dropped the hint to James that he'd do well to keep an eye on them. There's things in the small reception room, sir, as would go into a man's pocket."

"You did quite right, Willett," said Mr. MacLane. "Brenda, my child, I suppose it's entirely useless."
"Absolutely. I must go," she said.
"Then I must go, too," he groaned.
But Brenda put a firm veto upon this proposal.

"It is wholly unnecessary," she said.
"With my maid and James I shall not be afraid, even if these men are all that Willett says they are. There will be the coachman and groom besides."

Her father came up to her and touched the diamond ornament which she wore at her throat.

"I would not put unnecessary temptation in the way of the weak," he said, with an attempt at levity. "Some of these fellows are said to be very expert."

Brenda gave the pin to her father and also removed a ring of more than ordinary value, which she knotted up in a handkerchief and thrust into the bosom of her dress. Her maid entered at this moment with such things as were necessary to prepare Brenda for the ride.
After his daughter's departure Mr.
MacLane paced the floor of the library for a long hour in restless anxiety.
Then he received a telephone message from Brenda informing him that she had learned that Mr. Alden was still detained at the police station, which was an injustice not to be overlooked by his friends. The financier then understood why he had been left at home, as a result of Brenda's presentation of the case Mr. MacLane called upon his lawyer, who was a near neighbor. The two men rode down to the station house in a cab, stopping at a club on the way to cash a check.

Upon giving their names to the sergeant at the desk in the station they were ushered into the captain's room, where, to their surprise, they found both the officer and his prisoner. Neale was sitting by a desk in the corner.
He had the cramped look and the dull eye of a man who has neither moved nor spoken in a long time. Half a cigar with a ragged end was between his lips, and it seemed to have been driven in with a hammer. Any one who had known Neale for ten years would have said that this was the same vigor he had always been smoking. There was a tradition that he had never been seen to light a fresh one.

Alden was standing by a barred window looking out into a narrow, dark court, with a dead wall on the opposite side. There was nothing to attract a rational man's eye, but Alden continued to stare even after MacLane and the lawyer entered the room. He turned, however, when Captain Neale greeted the two men by name. At the sight of Alden's face MacLane, who was advancing toward him, stopped short. It is not the barrier between them which keeps the spectator in the menagerie from intruding upon the privacy of the caged tiger; it is the look in the creature's eye.

"Good evening, sir," said Alden quietly. "I am surprised to see you here."

MacLane started at the sound of the voice; it was so different from what he expected.

"My daughter told me there was some sort of trouble," he began.

"It was very kind of her," said Alden.

"You probably heard that Mr. Alden was under arrest," said the captain.
"That isn't so. He's held as a witness.
There's no charge against him. He and I had a little disagreement about what was the right thing for him to do.
You see, he doesn't understand my position. I'm held accountable in these cases. But I don't want to make no trouble for no man," he went on, with that profusion of negatives which is often an ornament of his language in moments of earnestness, "and if I could see a decent way of letting him go without getting myself into trouble, why, I'd be glad to oblige him and his friends."

"Permit me to consider the legal aspect of the case," said the lawyer, sitting upon a corner of the table that was in the middle of the room and facing Neale, while the others were behind him.

There was silence of half a minute, and then the lawyer got upon his feet.
"It seems to be perfectly simple," he said at last.

"If you say so, that settles it," replied Neale, rising and walking toward the door. "Sorry to have troubled you, Mr. Alden. Good night."

And he bowed as the three men walked out, MacLane weak and trembling with excitement, Alden perfectly unmechanical. As they passed the sergeant's desk the lawyer discovered that he had left his cane in the captain's room, and he returned. He was absent about five minutes, at the expiration of which time he joined MacLane upon the sidewalk. Alden was not there.

"He has gone to the hospital in our cab," said MacLane. "The man is in a trance. He scarcely spoke ten words.
What detained you?"

"The captain was showing me a present that he had just bought for his little boy," replied the lawyer. "It's one of those iron banks. That'll make him thrifty, like his father," said the captain. So, to encourage the child, anking his voice to a whisper, "I put $300 into the bank while the captain was looking out of the window. Perhaps you didn't notice that I counted some of my fingers as I sat on the corner of my table; not so many as I had expected, but Neale was really glad to get rid of him. It's the easy way all around."

"Only $300?" exclaimed MacLane.
"Well, that was easy."

CHAPTER V.

THE PATIENT AT ST. WINIFRED'S.

ON the way to St. Win-fred's with Brenda
Mr. Barnes and Mr.
Haggerty exerted themselves to be entertaining. By way of opening a conversation and showing that personal interest which a lady always appreciates Mr. Barnes mentioned the singular circumstance that he happened to know a man who had seen Miss MacLane that afternoon. He wondered whether Miss MacLane could guess where it was that this man had seen her. Upon Brenda's acknowledging that she was unable to solve this riddle Mr. Barnes kindly gave her a clue.

"If you could remember where you were at precisely ten minutes to 3," he said, "why, that would settle it."

Brenda smiled at the great astuteness of Mr. Barnes, but she declined to be led into a review of her movements that afternoon. Mr. Haggerty then struck into the conversation with the remark that it was curious how people could forget where they had been, and he instanced the case of a young lady who had lost an excellent alibi in a criminal affair through the error of not taking the police into her confidence at an early stage of the proceedings, while the facts were fresh in her mind.
Brenda suggested that perhaps the lady did not fully trust the police, whereupon Mr. Barnes asserted warmly that that was the greatest mistake possible to a human being.
"Always trust the police," he said.
"Guilty or innocent, it's the only thing to do."

At the hospital it became immediately evident that Barnes and Haggerty had encountered a mysterious and formidable obstacle. They were about to accompany Brenda into the reception room, and she had begun to fear that they might never leave her while she remained in the building, but for some insurmountable reason they vanished, and Brenda's last glimpse showed them obviously crestfallen.

She had been somewhat lightened in spirits by the absurd comedy played by those dull witted men. It had ended, however, and the real significance of the drama again asserted itself.

The reception room of St. Winfred's is lofty and bare, and there was a chill air in it even on that sultry June evening. Brenda observed that the place inspired her two companions with a vague terror. The maid was seized with a visible trembling, and the stalwart James shifted his heavily shod feet upon the floor, arousing singularly loud echoes that seemed to affect him unpleasantly.

The attendant who had shown them in returned after some minutes' absence with two men, one of whom Brenda had seen in the hall as they entered. He was the typical hospital phy-

"Miss MacLane," she cried in a weak voice.

sician of the popular conception. Brenda noted only that he wore spectacles and that his upper lip was very thin and rigid. In his companion Brenda was refused to recognize a young doctor of her acquaintance, Sumner Kendall. She advanced hastily, with extended hand.

"Dr. Kendall," she exclaimed, "I had no idea you were connected with St.
Winfred's. I have come to see Miss Miller. Is she conscious? What has she said?"

The physician seemed to be laboring under considerable embarrassment. He took Brenda's hand with a quick, nervous movement, and he clasped it harder than the forms of polite society permit. But he did not meet the young lady's eye.

"Our patient is conscious," he said.
"She has an excellent chance of recovery. Indeed under ordinary circumstances there would be small cause for alarm. To our great surprise, we find that she does not know who inflicted the wound. It may be only a lapse of memory due to shock, but I myself fear that she will never be able to answer the question."

"She does not know?" echoed Brenda.
"You must understand," said Kendall, "that the assailant stood behind her. He, whoever it may have been, is supposed to have entered the room while Miss Miller was out on the balcony. I have had the place accurately described to me. In the corner of the room near the eastern window there is quite a large closet. Perhaps you noticed it."

Brenda inclined her head.
"The assassin may have hidden himself there," Kendall continued. "Miss Miller remembers stepping into the room through that eastern window, and she knows nothing of what happened between that moment and the time of her awakening here."

"She will live," said Brenda. "She will remember some day."

"She can never remember what she did not observe," replied Kendall. "It may be that she neither saw nor heard the assassin. As to the wound, I hardly know what to say. The knife entered between the first and second ribs and passed downward very close to the body wall. Ordinarily it would be almost impossible to inflict such a wound. The assassin must have been singularly ignorant of anatomy to strike downward at such a spot, for the chances were a thousand to one that the bony structure would protect the vital parts. The knife should have cleared the first rib and hit fairly against the second. But it happens that Miss Miller received an injury on this precise spot years ago, as a result of which this first rib is somewhat depressed. Thus the murderer was favored by an extraordinary chance. His idea was, first, to escape being seen by her, and, second, to strike at the front of the body while standing behind in order to avoid the blood that must follow the blow. Having struck, he undoubtedly supposed that he had reached the heart, and only a miracle prevented. Our ambulance surgeon believed that the wall of the heart was punc-tured and that a clot of blood was stopping the wound, as happens once in a million times. That is not the case. Not only did the knife miss the heart, but it missed the arteries in a way that only divine Providence can account for.
So the first effusion of blood was not followed by the fatal drain that might have been expected. Do I make myself clear?"

"I understand enough," said Brenda.
"I know that she may recover, and I thank God with all my soul."

The Richardson arrived last night and returned to Evansville this morning. She was inspected Wednesday at Evansville.

Inspector L. P. Holland, of the Ayer and Lord company, of the city, went to Green river yesterday afternoon on business.

The steamer Shiloh will be off the Jeffersonville docks about December 1, it is said, and will go into her trade immediately upon her arrival here.

Engineer Joe St. John is out again after a several days' illness. He has been on the steamer Dudley, but was forced to leave on account of illness.

The steamers Pavonia, Duffey, Inverness, Margaret and Russell Lord, the Ayer and Lord boats, are all ready to go out as soon as the water is sufficiently high.

The Tennessee will not be off the ways this week, as first reported, but will be ready to resume her regular Tennessee river trade Saturday a week from tomorrow.

The new oil room of the river engineers' association has been completely fitted out. The room is located over the Mammas book binding establishment and is one of the neatest and cosiest oil rooms in the city.

The transfer boat Bertram, of the Illinois Central railroad, which was repaired here some months ago and has since been laying up near the incline, was today taken to Helena, Ark., to be used by the railroad.

The steamer John Bertram, the Illinois Central transfer boat that has been lying at the foot of Madison street, will leave today for Helena, Ark., to take the place of the steamer Joy which will be brought here for repairs. The crew of the Bertram will change to the Joy when Helena is reached, and will bring here for repairs.

The pilots left Pittsburgh Monday. There were about twenty in the party, including Capt. James O. Wood, Capt. Robert Honkles, William Blackstock, Rush Burnside and "Con" McDonald. They will go as far as Wheeling, W. Va., which place they expect to reach in several days. The boat will be left there to be towed to Pittsburgh later by some returning steamer.

There will be several boats in the Cumberland river trade this season. The Henrietta will work in that trade in connection with the Lulu Warren, the latter boat having been purchased some time ago for that purpose. The Warren is working out a four months' charter in the cotton trade near Memphis but will return shortly to go into the Cumberland river trade. It is said that the Henrietta and Warren will work with each other and the fight that will be made between these steamers and those of Captain Ryman will be watched with interest when the water comes. It is also stated that the boat Lenahan, recently purchased by Captain Karnes and Baner will be run in the Cumberland trade.

The mammoth transfer steamer Carrig, for the Missouri Southern railway, was successfully launched from the ways at Howard's shipyard. She is 215 feet long, 45 foot beam and 8 foot hold. She has boilers, engine and wheel on each side of the boat, with double tracks from stem to stern between. The engines are 23 inch cylinders, 7 foot stroke. Two boilers in each battery, each boiler being 44 inches in diameter, 28 feet long and two 16 inch flues in each. She has no cabin and the pilot house is over the tracks at the forward part of the boat. The hull is a fine specimen of workmanship, and the entire boat will be a model of her kind when completed. She is painted black all over and presents a weird appearance. Carrig is the name of the birthplace in Ireland of President John R. Walsh of
